

PEREZ REPORTED BEFORE KILLED

Juarez Officers Sent Three
From Juarez Side; White
Released on Bond.

Francisco Perez, who was shot and killed at the Yaleta jail Friday noon by U. S. customs inspector J. D. White, together with Edil Romero and Augustin Chavez, were reported from Mexico by the Mexican authorities and put across the river at Yaleta at the San Jose ford, according to the federal and county officials. Romero and Chavez are now in the county jail, pending an investigation of their cases, being held on a technical charge of vagrancy.

The Mexican officials, Friday morning, are said to have notified American authorities that the three Mexicans were to be deported. The names were those of Perez, Romero and Chavez.

White on Bond.
Customs inspector White, charged with the murder of Perez, had a preliminary hearing before justice of the peace J. J. Murphy, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and was released upon a bond of $500. The bond was arranged for by Victor Moore, his attorney.

Tells of Killing.
They rode up to the Mexican, who was Francisco Perez, and placed him under arrest, he said. The three men then rode to the Yaleta jail. Upon entering the prison, Perez was subjected to a search and, just when this act was about to be performed, he drew a pistol and attempted to fire.

"White grabbed at Perez with his left hand and drew the gun backward, when it discharged," Carnes said. At the same time White fired his .45 pistol into the body of Perez and then stepped back a few feet and fired the second shot. Perez fell, and when he stopped over him, he had the pistol in his right hand.

His First Killing.
Inspector White has been an officer on the border for 13 years and said this was the first man he had ever killed. "I have been in some dangerous places during my experience as a peace officer but Friday was the first time I have had to kill a man and, while I had to shoot in self defense, I regretted it very much," Inspector White said Saturday. "I do not want the idea to become general that I am a peace officer with a gun. I have always tried to keep from using my pistol and I did yesterday until the man started shooting at me."

White Justified.
Local customs authorities found Saturday morning that White was justified in placing Francisco Perez under arrest and that he was justified in shooting Perez. Carnes had shot White first.

No representations by the authorities across the river had been made up to Saturday noon on the killing of Perez and the Mexican consulate Saturday morning announcing that it was a formal investigation of the affair by consular agents on this side of the border, nothing had been done officially by the Mexican government.

Seizure Of Diamonds From Neutral Ship Reveals Big Parcel Post Smuggle Plot

New York, Jan. 25.—The recent seizure from a neutral ship by a British cruiser in the North sea of a package containing diamonds to the value of $430,000 has exposed one of the most gigantic smuggling plots that has ever been in existence. It is estimated that during the past six months diamonds worth $5,000,000 have been smuggled into New York hidden in parcel post packages.

The head of the conspiracy was located in Antwerp, and from there packages of diamonds were forwarded to confederates in Amsterdam, who hid them in innocent objects suitable for the mailing, which were addressed to members of the ring in New York. This defeated the United States customs, for when the packages were opened in New York to see if they contained anything dutiable or suspicious, the customs inspectors gazed upon a book, a round Dutch cheese or some equally ordinary shipment. The parcel mailed at Amsterdam almost invariably went to Rotterdam and thence by boat to Copenhagen. There it was put on a liner for this port. This was exactly the course adopted in handling the valuable package which was intercepted and seized by Great Britain.

The foreman of the construction says Ben was a mighty strong man for his age and had a big chest and a fine lift. The body was carried to the J. J. Kaster company and J. M. Deaver, coroner, held the inquest.

Death was pronounced due to natural causes.

Gomez lived with his family in an adobe at Seventh and South Oregon street. He is survived by a wife and several children.

London, Eng., Jan. 23.—Concerning the Shakspeare tercentenary, April 23, 1916, is the actual date of the great bard's death. Representatives of the stage are to meet William Poel on Easter morning outside his Majesty's theater and to proceed on foot to the Shoreditch church, which in the evening the Actors' church union will attend divine service at Westminster Abbey.

On Wednesday, May 3, Shakspeare services will be held in every church throughout the country. One London service will be attended by the king and queen.

Unearth Liquor Ledge
Assaying $3.50 a Pint

Miami, Ariz., Jan. 25.—Jake Molano notified the sheriff's office that small boys had found in his pasture surface indications of a ledge of bootlegger's liquor which ought to assay $250 a pint. Deputies armed with picks and shovels began mining the claim and dug out 175 pint flasks of high grade whisky which had been concealed underground evidently pending a good chance to dispose of it locally.

It was found the liquor had been brought by automobile from California and had been left near the pasture at the direction of an unknown woman.

QUINN'S GAME AT EXECUTION

Pays Penalty for Murder of William Herbertson in a
Quarrel Over Woman.

Canon City, Col., Jan. 23.—Interpreting prayers with the remark that he was "dying game," George Quinn was hanged here Friday evening for the murder of William H. Herbertson at Denver, October 24, 1914.

Quinn was taken to the execution chamber at 6:30 a. m. and pronounced dead at 6:35. Quinn's only statement was:

"I would say that I did game, as I said by 'the boy' Quinn meant the 14 months old son born to Mrs. Quinn, who was formerly Mrs. Herbertson, widow of the man, for whose murder he was executed."

Walke Calmly to Scaffold.
Quinn walked to the execution chamber and calmly took his place for the final preparations for the execution. Besides the invited witnesses, Quinn's spiritual advisor, Rev. Father Lockschmidt, and physicians were present. Mrs. Quinn and son visited the prisoner a week ago.

First sacrament was administered to Quinn at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, and from that time on he prayed constantly. Even when being led to the scaffold he was praying audibly. At no time, it was declared, did he lose self-control, accepting his fate with fortitude.

Quarrel Over Woman.
According to testimony at the trial, Quinn was to the Herbertson home late in the afternoon of Oct. 24 to demand that Mrs. Herbertson return to live with him. It was shown that Mrs. Herbertson had been living with Quinn for several months, but shortly before the murder of her husband she had returned to her home, and it was said, a reconciliation was being considered.

During the conversation between Mrs. Herbertson and Quinn, Herbertson appeared. A quarrel ensued, resulting in Quinn shooting Herbertson with a shotgun. Herbertson died almost instantly. A few months after the murder, Quinn and Mrs. Herbertson were married in the county jail, to give Mrs. Herbertson's unborn baby a name, it was explained.
